EVERY consultant at the threatened Whittington Hospital has publicly opposed proposals to close its A&E department, announcing that they have "great concerns".

More than 100 consultants working at the Highgate Hill hospital have thrown their weight behind a strongly worded statement in which they say they are committed to keeping a "high-quality, full 24/7 accident and emergency department".

Health chiefs at NHS London have proposed to downgrade the hospital as part of a mass reorganisation of six hospitals covering Enfield, Barnet, Haringey, Islington and Camden. The Whittington's A&E could be closed completely or downgraded to a 16-hour service under the proposals, which are still at an early stage.

Doctor Ben Timmis, chairman of The Whittington Consultants Support Committee, told the Advertiser why they had taken this step. He said: "We have more than

'Healthcare should be directed at local level'

1,000 cumulative years of experience and there is 100 per cent support for this. We feel the interests of the local population would be best served having an A&E at The Whittington, partly because accessibility at the Royal Free and UCLH isn't as good for patients in our catchment population and partly because we live in a very economically deprived area.

"A lot of our patients are elderly or infirm, don't have English as their first language or have to rely on public transport. The people we serve in Haringey and Islington also tend to present later on with more advanced diseases."

Dr Timmis acknowledged that bosses were faced with "trying to square a round circle" by making savings of about £350million in acute services in the North Central London sector, but said he and his colleagues were eager to help save cash without reducing frontline services.

He said: "This isn't a political gesture or any sort of statement against NHS London - we are not simply saying that this is the managers' problem. We simply feel the future provision of healthcare should primarily be directed by those at local level - the people who are going to be delivering that care."

Dr Timmis warned planners to take account of the 30,000 patients per year - about 80 people per day - who turn up at The Whittington's A&E needing further tests. They are not necessarily immediately admitted, thereby being added to the hospital's statistics, but often need complex and time-consuming tests carried out in the A&E itself.

"If The Whittington A&E goes, these patients will not suddenly go away - they are going to have to be assessed elsewhere," he said.

"Both The Royal Free and UCLH have

STROKE patients will no longer be sent to The Whittington from today, when the hospital's stroke department is due to be closed.

The department, which cares for about 340 patients a year in ten beds, will shut following a major shake-up of services in London.

Stroke patients will instead be taken to University College London Hospital near Euston. The Whittington will continue to admit past stroke patients who need treatment for other conditions. Stroke staff were given the opportunity to transfer to UCLH or the Royal Free, which offers stroke aftercare, but most opted to be transferred to other Whittington departments.

Stroke sufferers will be treated in eight specialist "super-centres".

a similar workload to ours, meaning a lot of resources will need to be redirected to tend for these additional patients."

A spokesman for NHS London said the review was not about specific A&E units but about building a "better, more robust" healthcare system.

He added: "All clinically viable permutations for the implementation of Healthcare for London in NCL, including retention of the Whittington A&E, are being considered."

North Mid: no problem with mortality rate

HEALTH chiefs at North Middlesex University Hospital have been forced to defend the hospital's death rates after it was named as having a high mortality rate.

A leading health expert has warned the hospital in Edmonton should be investigated amid fears too many patients there are dying. It was named among 25 hospital trusts in England in a report last week penned by Professor Brian Jarman. The professor, of the Doctor Foster Unit health watchdog based at London's Imperial College, said the figures could point to wider problems and has asked for the Care Quality Commission to investigate.

But the North Mid's chief executive rubbished the claim, saying everything was being done to take care of patients and that the figures used were flawed.

Clare Panniker said: "The trust has no concerns about its mortality rate. The information for 2007/08 was identified as inaccurate by the trust, was corrected and resubmitted in August 2008. Dr Foster has not changed the data and continues to report these inaccurate figures."

"This year's mortality rate is below the national benchmark and Dr Foster commended us in its latest 2009 Hospital Guide for our mortality rate."

'I was very angry at the state of child services and the way I was treated'

Baby P whistleblower vows to bring change to Haringey

By Lucy Purdy

A WHISTLEBLOWER who raised the alarm over child protection failings at Haringey Council has announced she will stand for election for the Liberal Democrats.

Former social worker Nevres Kemal, who warned that social workers were not following procedure just six months before the death of 17-month-old Baby Peter, will contest Noel Park ward in May. She was dismissed after sending letters criticising the "out of control" department but was tragically vindicated after Baby Peter Connelly died at the hands of his mother, her boyfriend and their lodger at house in Tottenham in August 2007. Welfare professionals had visited the home in Penhurst Road 60 times before he died but failed to spot the danger he was in.

Ms Kemal, 45, told the Advertiser the way she was treated by the troubled authority had pushed her to stand.

She said: "I was very angry at the appalling state of children's services in Haringey and the way I was treated when I was trying to do something about very serious failures. It took [education secretary] Ed Balls to come in, when he realised the situation was serious, for anything to be done. We should never have even got there. I should never have been part of the Baby P story. After he died, they found terrible failings there. But when I complained, everything was 'fine'."

An experienced social worker, Haringey-born Ms Kemal was employed by the council in the wake of the death of Victoria Climbié.

She said Lib Dem MP for Hornsey and Wood Green, Lynne Featherstone, had also inspired her to stand after sticking by her through the row.

"I was nobody at the time, just some social worker," she said. "I was the pariah as I hadn't been vindicated then. Once the story had become fish and chip paper, Lynne was still there for me."

"This isn't about me but about bringing change to Haringey. If you knock on the doors in Noel Park people say they aren't interested in politics, but then they tell you about the huge piles of rubbish dumped near their homes, the electrical wires poking out of the walls or the parking

"It was a very simple question and I got a hell of a complex answer."

— everything they say is political."

She said the huge press interest in her life since she spoke out and the consequent legal wranglings with the council — an employment tribunal was eventually settled out of court — had been tough.

"I found it very distressing," she admitted. "As a family we are still recovering. My daughter was nine when it happened and found it very painful that her mum would be so depressed. People won't employ me in social services because I'm seen as a potential grass. That part of my life has not gone away but it has inspired me."

"I'm Turkish Cypriot and didn't speak English until I was nine. I was called all sorts of things and teased on the bus for being the 'wrong' colour. I'm not perfect, I make mistakes, but I feel so passionately about what Labour has failed to do. I didn't know the bigger picture when I was saying children I was caring for weren't being protected."

"It was a very simple question and I got a hell of a complex answer."

Plan to scrap gyratory gets public backing

A PROPOSAL to remove the clogged Tottenham Hale gyratory system has taken a step forward after public consultation revealed widespread support for the plan.

Planners at Transport for London have now begun detailed design work for an improvement scheme after 80 per cent of people supported it in a survey. Many said the scheme was long overdue.

The scheme, which will take 18 months from autumn 2012, would remove the existing one-way system, restore two-way traffic and make it easier to navigate for pedestrians and cyclists. A larger bus station and a new public square would also be created.

Kulveer Ranger, transport advisor to London mayor Boris Johnson, described the gyratory as a "relic of the past" and added: "Going back to two-way would make simple common sense. It should greatly smooth the flow of traffic through the area."

The scheme is intended to make it easier for residents to access their homes within the one-way system and ease the route of buses passing through Tottenham Hale station — currently at capacity.

However, some changes have been made following feedback: these include allowing lorries to continue turning left from Markfield Road into Broad Lane and increasing space earmarked for cycle lanes.

By Lucy Purdy

WHEN the recession hit and the construction industry collapsed, eastern European men who had come to Haringey in search of work instead faced destitution and a miserable life struggling on the streets.

Penniless, unable to speak fluent English and stranded thousands of miles from home, the migrants were among the hardest hit when the industry caved in and job openings for labourers, plasterers and tilers literally vanished overnight. It was only when outreach workers from an African church in Tottenham started to speak to these men, forced into sleeping rough on the streets of Haringey, they realised there was a huge opportunity to help lift them out of their plight.

Now Reverend Alex Gyasi, of the Highway Of Holiness Church in Fountayne Road, has gone from cooking up a hot meal or two last summer to providing a sympathetic ear and space for 35 men to sleep every night – as well as all the tools necessary to help them find work and place them firmly back on the road to recovery.

Reverend Gyasi said the work had been his “most challenging but most exciting” to date.

“These two men knocked on the church’s door one Monday, came in and told me about their problems,” he told the Advertiser.

“They were basically destitute with nowhere to sleep, no clothing and nowhere to have a bath or shower. We started by giving them something to eat, which was their most immediate need.

Providing shelter: Reverend Alex Gyasi of the Highway Of Holiness Church takes in homeless at Highway Centre

“After about a week they explained they were unable to go and look for a job because of the way they looked and smelled. The nearest place to get a shower if you’re homeless is London Bridge and they just didn’t have the means to get there.

“So we decided to take out one of our toilets and turn it into a shower which they could use. They came out glowing – it really improved their self-esteem and confidence and made us realise the small things can make such a big difference.”

As temperatures plunged, Reverend Gyasi realised he needed to do more, so offered the church as a place to bed down for a couple of nights a week. This soon became five, then six, then seven nights a week. He said: "They take their showers here and we also have recreation activities in the day such as table tennis, pool, TV and we also have free internet access. We teach them English on Mondays too and Haringey Advisory Group On Alcohol come in on Wednesdays.

"Although not all, a lot of the men have problems with alcohol dependency and huge health issues too. Some of them have been homeless for only a few months but others have slept rough for three or four years. We need to get them off alcohol and give them a chance of finding a job. Our feeling was that we needed to give a full provision of help to really address their problems."

Most of the men are Polish but others are from Latvia, Romania, Lithuania and the Czech Republic and the church also currently helps one woman – between 30 to 35 people in total.

Haringey Council recently organised a Housing the homeless: As well as beds and a shower the Highway Centre provides some recreational facilities day for representatives from the Housing Service, NHS, Haringey Citizens' Advice Bureau, homelessness charity Thames Reach and Alcoholics Anonymous to visit the church and help the men tap into crucial services they may otherwise not know about.

Councillor Kaushika Amin, cabinet member for community cohesion and involvement, paid tribute to the church's work, saying it had become an "invaluable source of support" to the homeless in Tottenham.

For Reverend Gyasi and those who have helped him help the men, the work has been a crucial reminder of how the most vulnerable in society can easily be overlooked.

"This has been rewarding – more than rewarding – for us," he said.

"We have seen some really drastic changes and some changes which are painfully slow. But five or six of these men have now found jobs. They are working during the day and sleeping here which will continue until they earn some more money.

"There have been some truly beautiful transformations. You just think, wow."

Anyone able to donate funds, food, clothing or who has a suitable property to help sleep the men should contact the church on 020 8808 4444, email info@highwaychurchonline.org or visit www.highwaychurchonline.org

School of Horticulture

RHS Level 2 Certificate starts Tuesday 20th April

1 day a week for 1 year

Don't delay and miss your last chance to join for this academic year!

This course provides a broad introduction to the principles and practice of horticulture, and is suitable for those wishing to pursue a professional career in horticulture and for keen amateur gardeners.

Previously working as a secretary Janice Shipp enrolled for the RHS Certificate Level 2 at Capel Manor. After a career break she wanted to retrain to do something she'd really enjoy. "After I'd done the Level 2 Certificate I began a garden maintenance round and found myself with plenty of work, so I knew I'd made the right decision."

Janice continued on to the RHS Advanced Certificate and finally the RHS Diploma. She then went on to do a Master of Horticulture qualification with the RHS and now works for Which? Gardening as a Senior Researcher.

"I needed good horticultural qualifications for this job. Everyday I use the techniques and knowledge that I learned on the courses I took at Capel."

Courses start after Easter and there are spaces still available.

Welcomes the move: Citizens' Advice Bureau's Markos Chrysostomou

Credit union to be set up to protect vulnerable from loan shark traps

By Lucy Purdy

FAMILIES in Haringey who have struggled to make ends meet during the recession will soon be able to get financial support from a local credit union.

Haringey Council will set up the "local bank for local people" to help residents avoid going to loan sharks and racking up costly credit. Officials hope the credit union, increasingly used as alternatives to commercial banks and loan companies, will help people save money and sidestep crippling debt.

People who are not eligible for bank loans currently face borrowing through pay-day loans, store cards and doorstep lenders, where interest rates can be more than 700 per cent APR.

The news was welcomed by Haringey Citizens' Advice Bureau director Markos Chrysostomou. He said: "This is good news – it is a way of getting people away from loan sharks and ridiculous interest rates."

"Based on experience elsewhere, it's obviously a step in the right direction. In parts of Haringey, people are surviving from week to week and just exchanging loan for loan which means it just goes on and on. I've had to deal with a case in the past when someone started owing £2,000 and it went up to £15,000 within a couple of years – it can just get ridiculous."

Families and vulnerable people will also be helped to manage their finances through savings accounts at the union to be set up in partnership with Islington and City Credit Union Ltd.

Haringey Council will invest £146,000 over the next three years to help get the credit union up and running.

Councillor Bob Harris, cabinet member for resources, said: "Many people are finding it hard to manage in difficult times. By setting up a credit union we are helping them avoid the cycle of debt caused by unscrupulous lenders."

HARINGEY will no longer have to find any new sites for travellers and gypsies after a major U-turn by the Mayor of London.

Boris Johnson had told officials at Haringey Council they would need to find a total of 58 pitches suitable for travellers in the borough by 2017. This was later reduced to 25 and now City Hall has decided there is a need for just five new pitches in Haringey, after the previous targets were deemed "unrealistic".

Haringey Council currently provides up to ten pitches on two sites in Wallman Place, Wood Green, and Lawrence Road in Tottenham. Mayor Johnson's plan to create 58 sites in Haringey – which would have

No more new sites for travellers as mayor Boris does a U-turn on policy placed it in the top three in London along with Bromley and Ealing – had sparked concern. Candy Amsden, secretary of the residents' association which covers Lawrence Road, said at the time travelling people in the area did not cause many problems but she warned against "ghettoising" poorer boroughs and of other residents feeling intimidated by their presence. Neighbouring Camden will now have five pitches, Islington three and Enfield four, after the revised targets were published last week. The number of gypsy pitches in London overall has been slashed by half. It had been proposed to double from 538 to 1,062 but there will now be 238 sites across all 33 boroughs.

Kick-Ass (15)

Dir: Matthew Vaughn
Starring: Aaron Johnson, Nicolas Cage, Chloe Grace Moretz, Mark Strong

THIS is a superhero movie which may just have broken the mould – visually brutal, shocking, funny and British.

"How come nobody's ever tried to be a superhero?", muses geeky high school nobody Dave Lizewski at the start of the film, before he decides to don a green and yellow wetsuit to become Kick-Ass. And, after watching this pulsating cross between Superbad and The Dark Knight, you wonder why no one has made this film before.

His first foray into crimefighting fails drastically, leaving him stabbed and run-over. But Kick-Ass (played with insecure panache by young British actor Aaron Johnson) keeps trying and becomes an internet phenomenon when his exploits are filmed and posted on YouTube.

He's soon noticed by a Mafia boss Frank D'Amico (Mark Strong) who wrongly blames him for trying to destroy his murky syndicate – work carried out with gruesome aplomb by crimefighting father/daughter superheroes Big Daddy and Hit-Girl, who eventually join forces with Kick-Ass.

Heroes: Kick-Ass (Aaron Johnson) and Hit-Girl (Chloe Grace Moretz)

The role of Big Daddy forced out of Nicolas Cage his best performance for more than a decade, but it's his 11-year-old daughter played by Chloe Grace Moretz, who steals the show.

Hit-Girl is an acute example of that increasingly blurred line between childhood and adulthood, but she is also brilliant – swearing like a sailor (her use of the C-word is like a punch in the face) and dishing out a gory death to unfortunate bad guys in her way.

The screenplay was co-written by Jonathan Ross' wife Jane Goldman, along with the film's director Matthew Vaughn. And it's the latter's efforts – produced almost entirely in Britain – which will undoubtedly propel him into the Hollywood directorial big league.

References to other superhero movies abound, but after Kick-Ass it's hard to see how these traditional flicks can ever be made the same way again.

The Blind Side (12A)

Sandra Bullock won an Oscar for her single-minded mum who adopts a black teenager. Schamltzy and manipulative it's still very watchable in a Friday night, check your brain out at the box office end of way.

My Last Five Girlfriends (12A)

Congratulations to Julian Kemp for writing and directing the first NO STAR film of the decade. As funny as my dad's funeral this is an appalling Brit anti-comedy that should be tried in The Hague for crimes against humanity.

Shutter Island (15)

Martin Scorsese directs this Gothic melodrama set on a prison island in the mid 1950s. Always watchable it gradually reveals its own insane logic helped by performances from Leonardo DiCaprio, Mark Ruffalo and a sinister Ben Kingsley.

Alice in Wonderland (PG)

Tim Burton's dark vision is let down by a conventional fantasy adventure script. Still, there's lots to enjoy particularly Helena Bonham Carter and Johnny Depp fighting for the Utterly Bonkers Oscar as the Red Queen and Mad Hatter.

food

IT'S welcome back to celebrity chef and Ready Steady Cook regular Richard Cawley, who has prepared another exclusive recipe for us. Once again, thanks to The Broadwalk Centre in Edgware for arranging this for us.

with
Richard Cawley

ALTHOUGH I say so myself, this really is the best bolognaise sauce in the world!

The secret is long, slow cooking. This sauce is excellent not just on pasta but on mashed potatoes or with rice or just as a "dressing" over a big plate of cooked mixed fresh vegetables. It also makes the basis for a superior cottage pie or lasagne.

Perfect Bolognaise Sauce

(Serves 4)

125ml/4fl oz extra virgin olive oil
1 finely chopped, peeled carrot
1 rib of celery, finely chopped
1 small onion, finely chopped
1 clove garlic, sliced into pieces
450 g/1lb lean minced beef
2 tbsp flour
125ml/4fl oz tomato "passata"
125ml/4fl oz white wine (red is fine if you have some open)
1 1/1 3/4 pt chicken stock ("Just Bouillon" cubes from supermarkets are excellent)
Freshly ground black pepper, to taste (about 3-4 twists)
1 tsp salt

For the bouquet garni:

1 sprig fresh rosemary, 1 sprig fresh thyme and 2 sprigs parsley, tied together with clean string.

● Heat half the oil in a wide saucepan, deep frying pan or wok and stir-fry the chopped vegetables over a medium heat for ten minutes. Transfer vegetables to a bowl with a slotted spoon and set aside.
● Add the remaining oil to the pan with the sliced garlic and cook until golden, about 30 seconds. Remove the garlic with a slotted spoon and discard.

● Add the meat and stir to break it up, then stir-fry until evenly browned (about 10 minutes).

● Stir in the flour and cook for two minutes, then add the "passata" and wine. Stir well then turn up the heat and allow to boil until almost all the liquid has evaporated.

● Return the vegetables to the pan with the stock, salt, pepper and "bouquet garni".

● Stir well, scraping up all the bits from the bottom of the pan.

● Bring the mixture to the boil, then turn the heat down as low as possible and simmer uncovered for 1 hour.

● Stir the sauce occasionally and add a few spoonfuls of stock or water if it seems too dry.

● The finished sauce should not be too thick, but should pour from the spoon when done.

● Serve over freshly cooked pasta, sprinkled with freshly grated Parmesan if you like.

Show that boasts being on the slide

IT SEEMS like Nick Tigg, Fiona Creese and myself had similar experiences growing up.

I too suffered endless slide shows in town halls of dull subjects only enlivened when the projector broke down – as it inevitably would.

“Yeah. Someone would be showing their slides of Ancient Greece and the carousel would get stuck and often it was a husband-and-wife team who would get really testy with each other,” said Nick.

“Fiona and I both remember them so that’s where we started from with this project.”

Replicating the infamous husband-and-wife team Nick and Fiona present us with terribly worthy slides of Greece before things start to get slightly strange...

“We start off getting narked with each other, then the machine breaks down and then the God Dionysus is unleashed into the room!” said Nick.

“They are stuffed shirts to begin with but then there is a sort of liberation but in a very English way with lots of ukulele playing! For me this play is about freedom of expression and wanting people to be free to say what they want and create what they want to create.”

Projection: Nick Tigg and Fiona Creese present The Slide Show

Nick and Fiona met working for the famous experimental group the People Show in the early 1990s.

“They do a thing called Building Shows where they take over a building and put on a different show in every single room,” said Nick. “And we took over a room and did a show where two people sit on a little trolley and we wheel them around and show them little events. Then someone said, ‘Why don’t you develop it as a theatre show?’ so for the past six years we’ve been doing just that and here it is.”

● The Slide Show next Friday and Saturday at Jacksons Lane in Highgate at 8pm. Tickets cost £12.75 (£10.75 concs). For ticket details call 020 8341 4421.

Out and about

● THERE’S traditional fun at Lauderdale House this Sunday. The Great Egg Roll is the star attraction alongside egg decorating and the popular treasure hunt at the venue in Highgate Hill, Highgate. It starts at 11am with tickets on sale from 10.30am at £6 per child. There is no advance booking as tickets are allocated on a first-come, first-served basis. (Maximum 100). Call 020 8348 8716.

● THE 1970s are resurrected at the Millfield next Wednesday. Rollermania features an evening with Les McKeown and the Bay City Rollers at the venue in Silver Street, Edmonton. Songs that influenced Les, first-hand recollections and some of the Rollers’ biggest hits will spill forth from 8pm. Tickets cost £17.50. Call the box office on 020 8807 6680.

● IT’S 70 years since rationing came into force. Pat and Barbara Elliot look back at how women coped with looking after their families through the hardship of the period in Make Do and Mend: Rationing And World War Two at Bruce Castle in Lordship Lane, Tottenham, from 7.30pm tonight. Pupils from St. John's School, learn about Health and Safety on a building site at Templar's Gate, Baldock.

PUPILS from St. John's Catholic Primary School in Baldock were given their first health and safety talk by property developers Barratt Homes. Invited to the nearby, 'Templar's Gate' development, the pupils had the opportunity to ask the building experts questions about health and safety on a building site. They each sported the necessary safety helmet and High Vis vest and were given the opportunity to lay a brick to form a brick wall of their own.

Chris Scarborough, Sales Director for Barratt North London commented, "We were delighted to have the children down to site to answer some of the questions they had about health and safety and construction in general. We often organise site visits with school's local to our developments, as making children aware of the dangers around building sites is a priority of ours. Given that the school is located right next to a new development, it was apparent that the children were already pretty clued up with what we do!

Class teacher, Miss Lake, comments, "The pupils had really been looking forward to visiting the Templar's Gate site. They had lots of questions to ask and it was great for them to be able to wear their own Hi-Vis vests, just like the real builders."

The pupils were also asked to design posters on Baldock's key land marks, the most unique designs will be exhibited at the Templar's Gate development.

Chris continues, "The poster entries are fantastic! We will be displaying our favourite pictures in the marketing suite, which will really brighten up the room."

St. John's School is situated only a stone's throw from the Templar's Gate development, a stylish collection of family homes located in Limekiln Lane, Baldock, SG7 6PG. Prices start from £350,000 for a three bedroom home and four bedroom homes start from £420,00. The marketing suite is open 7 days a week 10am to 6pm on a Tuesday through to Sunday and Monday 2pm to 6pm. Information on all Barratt Homes is available on www.barratthomes.co.uk

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:
1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice.
Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1989.

2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.

3. To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', (TY) etc. in the advertisement.

4. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:

(a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;

(b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or

(c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.

5. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.

6. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.

7. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.

8. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.

9. All gross advertising rates (except classified line and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.

10. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.

11. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.

12. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.
13. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.

14. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

(1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.

(2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current Bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.

15. Where an advertising instructor / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect of an advertisement should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.

16. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.

17. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.

18. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.

19. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers

Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing material. Original testimonials, goods, cash, stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.

Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category

All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection

The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing details.

Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties.
We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.

Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined at all persons submitting such advertisements.

REDKNAPP: IT'S UP FOR GRABS

Double trouble:
Goalscorers
Crouch and Kranjcar
celebrate after Spurs' second goal on Saturday

ADAM HOLT

Race for fourth will go down to the wire, according to Spurs boss

By Lee Husson

HARRY REDKNAPP has played down talk of Tottenham being certainties for the final Champions League spot despite seeing his side cruise past Portsmouth at White Hart Lane on Saturday in a dress rehearsal for next weekend's FA Cup semi-final.

Goals from former Pompey players Peter Crouch and Niko Kranjcar saw Spurs go five points clear of fifth, although the gap was reduced to just two points following Manchester City's 3-0 victory over Wigan Athletic on Monday night.

But Tottenham are in for a difficult April, a month which sees them take on the Premier League's top three of north London rivals Arsenal, Chelsea and Manchester United in consecutive league matches, as well as travelling to Manchester City in May.

And Redknapp is well aware that fourth-place is far from being decided, although his side remain the favourites.

"It has been a good week for us," Redknapp said.

"We are on a terrific run, that is five league wins on the spin now, which has kept us right in the race for fourth spot and we are in good form.

"Aston Villa now have it all do after their result at Chelsea [a 7-1 defeat] – which is a massive setback – but Liverpool have got a fantastic run-in and you cannot see them dropping many points.

"But you never know. There are no easy games this time of season and everyone is scrapping for points for all sorts of reasons."

Meanwhile Kranjcar believes a Champions League campaign could transform Spurs into a major player on the European scene.

"The Champions League is massive. Every player wants to play in it. It's the biggest tournament around in football," he said.

"We're definitely equipped to do well in the competition. You need to strengthen and build up your squad.

"I believe that Spurs could attract even bigger players if we reached the Champions League."

Tottenham Hotspur are back in action on Saturday when they face a trip to Sunderland (3pm).

We are on a terrific run, but there are no easy games.

Haringey boxers called up to Great Britain women's 2012 Olympic squad

TWO Haringey boxers will get the chance to make history after being called up into the first ever Great Britain women's squad ahead of the 2012 Olympics.

Nineteen-year-old Ruth Raper and Nicola Adams, 27, who both train at Haringey Police Boxing Club in Tottenham, have been named in the provisional seven-girl squad that will compete at the Games in London in two years' time.

The 2012 Olympics will be the first Games to feature women's boxing.

The squad has been selected following an extensive six-month assessment of nearly 100 women boxers across England, Scotland and Wales.

All seven will receive funding and train at the English Institute of Sport in Sheffield under GB Boxing's performance director, Rob McCracken.

"We have conducted a long and extensive assessment process and I am confident we have identified the best individuals with the most medal potential," McCracken said.

"All seven women have done brilliantly to be selected from such a strong pool of talent but the challenge now is to improve and move on to the next level."

Defeat sees 'Boro stuck in drop zone

HARINGEY BOROUGH remain in the Spartan Premier Division's relegation zone after suffering a narrow 1-0 defeat at the hands of Broxbourne Borough on Saturday.

The midweek results had seen Haringey slip back into the bottom two before the match – which was officially a home game for them but ended up being switched to Broxbourne's Goffs Lane home as the pitch at Coles Park was unplayable.

The only goal of the game arrived in just the 11th minute when Fred Dooling's cross from way out on the left wing somehow floated over Haringey keeper Brian Sealey and crept in under the angle of the far post and bar.

Haringey dominated proceedings for the remainder of the contest, but Broxbourne keeper Obey Morefu did not have a serious save to make before he was sent-off on 75 minutes for handling outside the area.

Broxbourne were even reduced to nine men in stoppage time when Daryl Mitchell picked up a second yellow card for time wasting, but Haringey were unable to make their numerical advantage count before the final whistle blew.

Haringey Borough visit St Margaretsbury tomorrow (7.45pm) and Harefield United on Saturday (3pm), before they go to fellow strugglers Kentish Town in a key match on Easter Monday (3pm).
